Student Council members Stephanie Mattox and Nathan Sawyer hit the toy department at Wal-Mart searching for that "special" gift. Families donated over $800.00 toward the Angel Tree.

Katrina McClanahan is out to prove that Cliff Notes are a must if one really wants to understand American Lit. Once frowned on by teachers, Cliff Notes are now considered to be an effective teaching tool.

Coming Together

Hands-on experience still seems to be the most effective means of learning as evidenced by the great number of students enrolled in the various vocational programs. Miranda Behel, Candy Norwood, and Jana McMackin worked on sewing projects in Housing class, while others opted to take small engine repair, cosmetology, welding, and other classes that would prepare them for a career after high school.

Life is a continual series of changes. Depending on the circumstances, this evolution may be gradual or immediate, minuscule or monumental. The shock of change is often tempered by the familiarity of tradition. LHS opened its doors to fresh arrivals in the fall of 1993 by offering a blend of the old and new, the constant and the everchanging.

TOO

Change was evident from the very first day of school.

CROWDED With a leap in population came the problems of crowded hallways, limited classroom space, and long lunch lines. Shorts, homecoming floats, and detention were out. Study

HOT skills, expulsion, and homemade pizzas were in. With the air conditioning on the blink, sandwiches and salads became the norm as temperatures

GETHER soared past the 100 degree mark.

As much as some things changed, others remained the same. We continued to begin our day with the Pledge to the Flag and a STRICT moment of silence. Complaints of too much homework and too many rules were voiced daily by the students. Various clubs and organizations rallied in support of their favorite charities. Fund raisers remained in full swing much to the consternation of many in the community.

It was this merging of the everyday and the unexpected that made the year unpredictable, as well as unforgettable.

Templeton the Rat (Micah Rochester) enjoys a quick snack during dress rehearsal of Charlotte's Web. Plays, field trips, and assemblies helped students break away from the regular classroom routine.

The Seniors fended off a determined Sophomore class to win the Spirit Chain competition. As a result, President Micheal Beuerlein got to hurl a cream pie into Mr. Daniel's face.

Christina Hill (96)

"I'm glad we have the moment of silence. On days when I've had a hectic morning the moment of silence allows me time to get my thoughts together."

Bobby Kelly (97)

"High School is pretty much what I expected. We have more responsibility than in elementary school. I like the size of LHS but I wish the break was longer."

Amanda Perry (97)

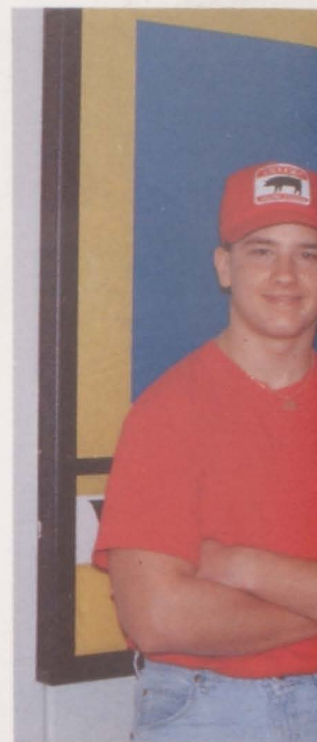

"If I could change things at LHS I would get a new cafeteria, fix the air conditioning, and do something about the lockers — they're too crowded."

Jamiy Birdsell (97)

"Before I came to LHS, I attended a middle school in Connecticut. I was nervous at orientation because I was new to the school. I met Myra Peppers and she introduced me to a lot of people and made me feel welcome."

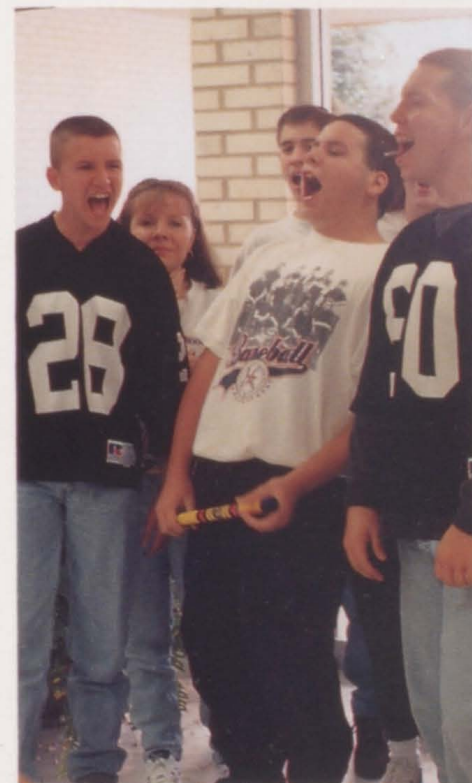

Kenny Wilson and Brent Elam take their turn on the dreaded "dots" as Tracy Smith looks on. Off-season workouts are not always the favorite part of athletics but have been proven to boost athletic performance during the competitive season.

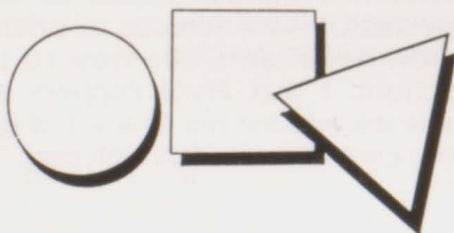

Basketball Homecoming Queen Cynthia Brown receives a kiss from her escort Kirk Weathers, as a chorus of "Kiss her, Kirk" echoes from friends in the stands.

Despite a small enrollment compared to other schools, students invariably complained that the halls were too crowded. Ben Gillespie, Jason Jackson, and Jeff Ramsey seem to bear this fact out as they struggle for position on one of the few benches available.

Kurt Brewer, Jessica Sledge, Matt Methvin, Nathan Sawyer, and Jay Andrews fight a losing battle in an effort to claim the title of 'loudest homeroom' for their respective classes, during football Homecoming activities.

Basketball Homecoming provided an opportunity for the CO-OP crew to pull out their caps and make a stunning fashion statement on Hat Day. Homecoming activities were curtailed because of school closings due to ice and snow. Jason Ellis, Adam Brewer, Steven Ellis and Mr. Deese made do with the limited activities offered.

Coach Schrimsher made his way onto the scene in '93 as Head Boy's Basketball Coach and Assistant Principal. He also coined the riddle, 'Which came first, the cola or the men's room?'

Too Small? Not!

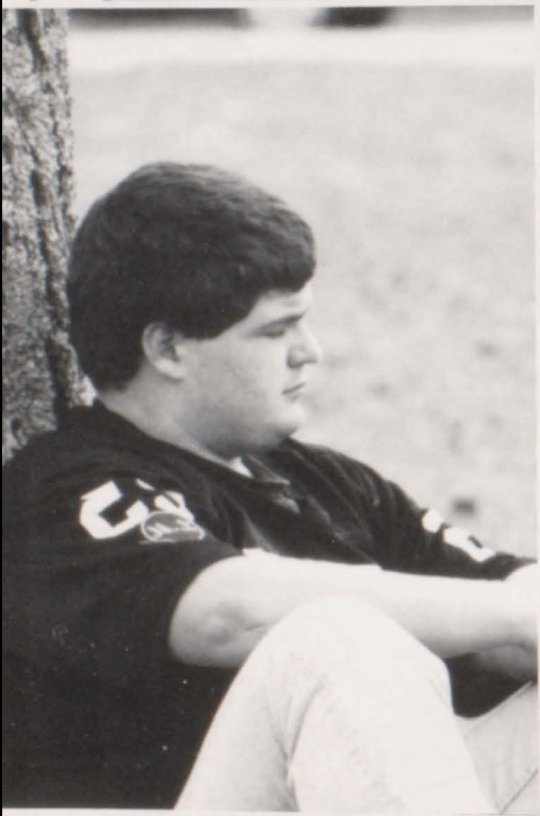

Enrollment climbed from 447 in 1992 to 478 in 1993 and is expected to continue upward for the next few years. Despite this increase, LHS is still basically considered a small school and most students prefer it that way. "I like a smaller school because I know everybody and everybody knows me", said freshman Nick Moore. Other positive features attributed to a small school are the accessibility of classrooms, the closeness of friends, and the rarity of violence.

Even though they agreed with the previous sentiments concerning small schools, some students were quick to point out disadvantages. "I'm glad I know everyone", stated sophomore

Thomas Scott, "but everyone also knows everything I do. I hate that"! A limited size also means a limited social slate. "A larger school would mean more people to have as friends", commented freshman Danielle Simbeck.

Although small schools have their share of problems, the good aspects seem to make us forget the bad.

Senior Greg Brown finds a quiet spot away from the crowd in hopes of enjoying the homecoming parade. Decorated cars made their way along the traditional parade route even though class floats were conspicuously absent.

Ms. King and 'Little' Coach Toner take their victory lap after being crowned Teacher Turkeys. Both received a Thanksgiving turkey from the FTA. Inset: After a lot of big talk Mr. Deese has to settle for second place and a little chicken.

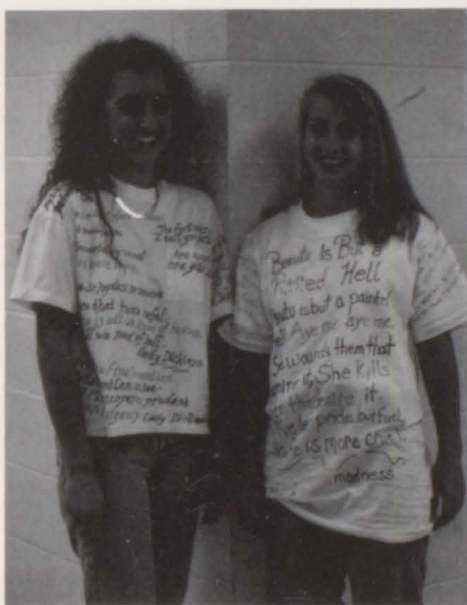

REQUIRED!

"Kirk! Kirk! Not another comma splice," commented Ms. Leighton. Comp. III students rallied to complete last-minute corrections before the end of the semester deadline.

Lee Boyd, Wesley Davis, B.J. Schisler, Kevin Corbin and Nathan Fowler spent the final few moments before Christmas vacation improving their skill level at cards.

Shellee Aldridge and Julie Hunt received rave reviews for their Poet tees. Ms. Krick's entire American Literature class decorated tee shirts with their favorite poetic verses.

Classmates screamed out "Pizza! Pizza!" as Jimmy Tidwell and Jeff Cody presented their Bohr models in Physical Science class. Cakes, T-shirts and Christmas lights were also used to construct creative models.

MR. and MISS LHS

Kenny Shelton Emily Davis

Emily is a four year cheerleader, and serves as president of the Student Council, YAB, and FCA. She is secretary of the Interact Club and is a member of the chorus, French Club, computer club and drama club. Kenny is a letterman in football, basketball, and baseball. He serves as president of the FCA and is a member of the Beta Club, Interact Club, and Gold Record Club.

Nominations for Mr. and Miss LHS were made by the senior class. The faculty narrowed the field of nominees to five. Mr. and Miss LHS were selected from these finalists by popular vote of the entire student body.

So What Now?

After eleven seemingly endless years, LHS Seniors can finally see an end to the tests, homework, and lectures. However, in the midst of this long awaited senior year, there were critical decisions to be made and goals to be set for the future. While some preferred not to continue their formal education, many graduates chose to go collegiate.

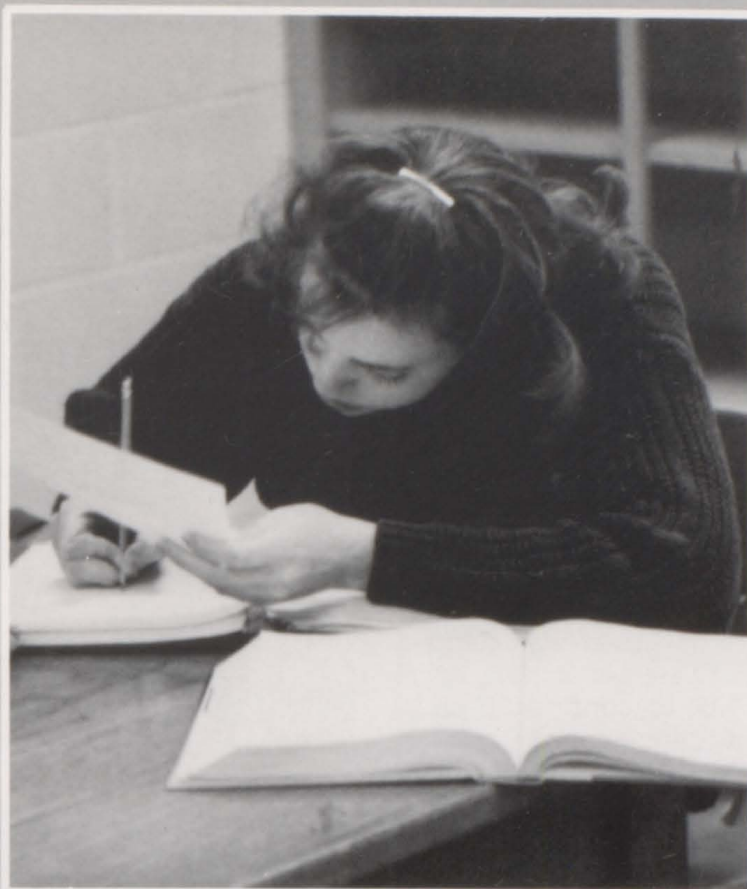

After making dozens of trips to the guidance office and screening stacks of handbooks, colleges were chosen. "I've changed my mind at least a dozen times," states Cynthia Brown. Location, curriculum, and scholarship potential were the determining factors used to select a college.

Though requirements for each institution varied, some things continued to be mandatory. College-bound students endured the four hour, anxiety-causing ACT to meet existing criteria for admission. There were grade guidelines to meet, applications to complete, and campuses to visit.

Some of those not planning to attend college opted to get a job or to attend a vocational school. Low grades, insufficient funds, & lack of interest were cited most often as reasons not to enroll in college. Leon Glaze commented, "I've gone to school long enough, it's time I got out and did something for myself."

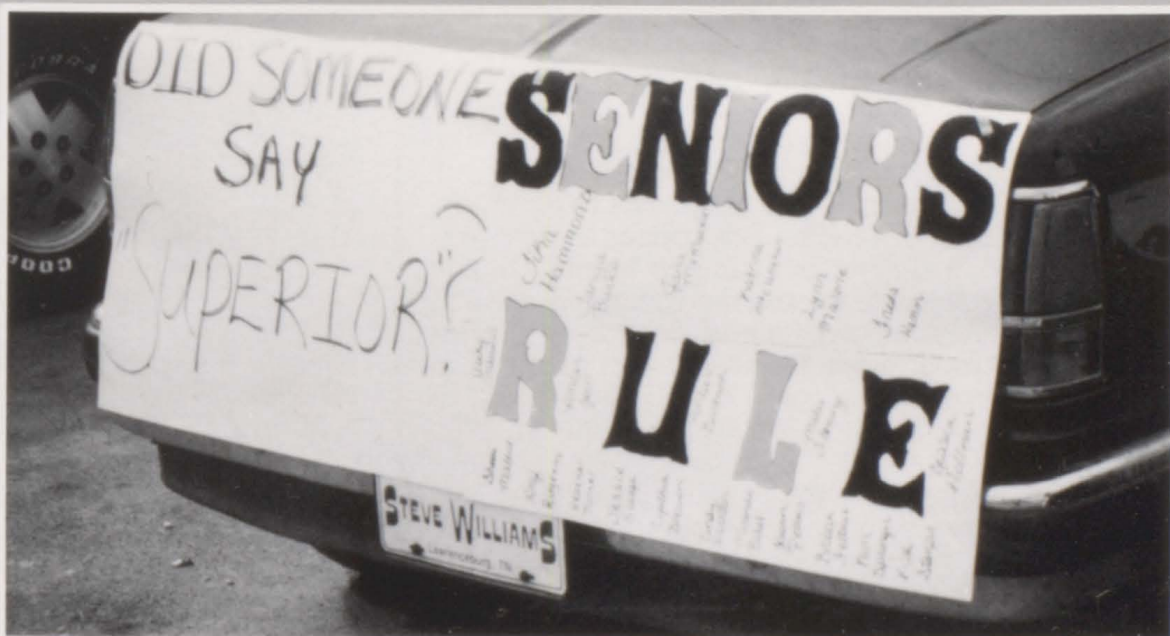

Regardless of their future plans, seniors pulled together in order to make the most of their senior year.

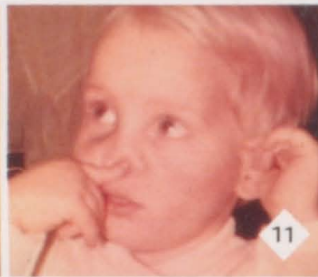

With graduation rapidly approaching, college-bound students hit the books in hopes of meeting college entrance requirements. "I've taken my ACT test and sent in my entrance applications already. I hope to attend UT-Knoxville next fall," stated senior Mary East.

Tika Hammond puts the finishing touches on an FHA banner. Many students enrolled in vocational courses in preparation for entering the job market immediately upon graduation from high school.

Every senior class seems to adopt the same slogan. After twelve years of paying the price, prospective graduates feel they've earned the right to proclaim 'Seniors Rule.' Whether or not anyone else agrees with this seems to be beside the point.

A senior at last, Shannon Fowler decorates her vehicle for the homecoming parade one final time. "Things seem more special when you know it's your last chance to be involved," said Shannon.

way 100 weird

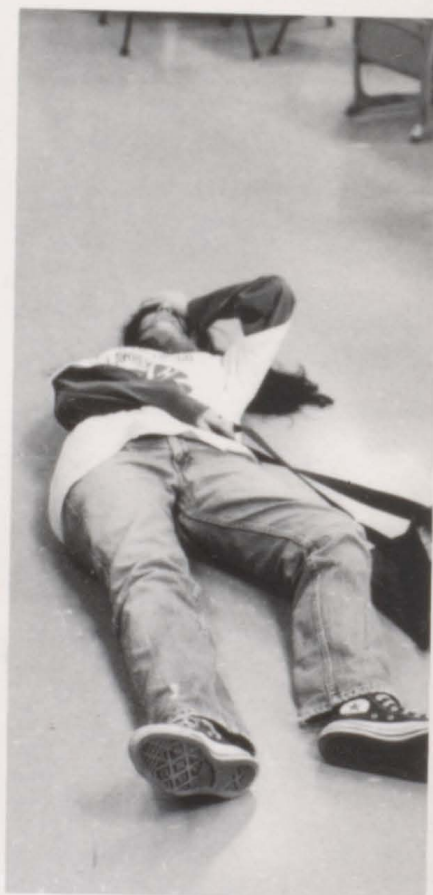

Ice storms, snow, power blackouts, road construction, and sewer installation were just a few of the not-so-common events shaping the '93 school year. Some consequences, rough roads for example, were only minor annoyances while others, including days of no water and no electricity, were major crosses to bear.

"During the ice storm, trees were falling on our house. It scared me to death", said freshman Lisa Nash. While most agreed that the lack of water, cable, and hot food was depressing, others found that the inability to flush the toilet or to milk the cows created the biggest problems.

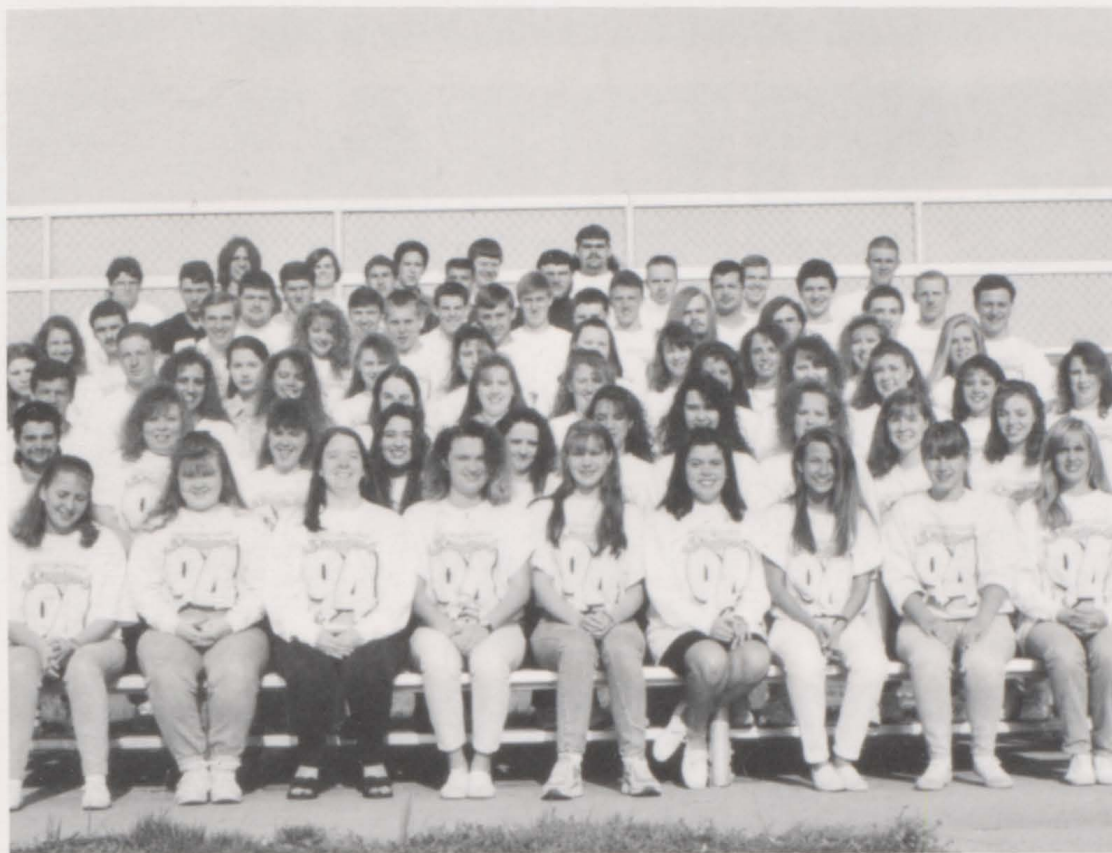

"The best part about being without power", said freshman Casey Boston, "was getting to stay in a hotel". The closing of school was considered to be a high point of the storm although most students agreed that they would have traded their days off for a nice hot shower.

Some felt it would just be 'too weird' to be able to purchase food somewhere other than the Quik Mart, but Hardee's broke new ground by being the first major fast food chain to locate in Loretto.

Mother Nature held nothing back during the 'Ice Storm of 94'. Broken trees downed electrical lines causing power outages throughout most of Middle Tennessee.

While Casey Moore's reaction to failing an Algebra test may seem extreme, many students have experienced a similar need to vent their frustration by throwing a tantrum at one time or another.

As this road comes to an end,
Know that another truly does begin.
As this door closes on special times,
Precious Memories begin.

Memories of friends we hold within our hearts,
We'll take a touch of them,
no matter how far apart.

As God shall lead, and light your path,
However long the road.

Just know you are loved and there are those,
Who are praying for you always.
Here at Home.

Lecture? Watch This!!!

Mr. Daniel takes one more swing at things before he turns the discipline over to the new man on campus, assistant principal Keith Schrimsher. Coach Schrimsher came to LHS from Elkmont High School.

Hey Mr. Deese! Did you go hunting this weekend? Questions like this were used as a common tactic by students to get their teachers off the subject at hand. Forgotten homework assignments, and boring subject matter were cited most often as reasons to get their teachers off on another track.

Most students steered the teachers toward topics they were interested in. "You can get Coach Jacobs to talk about football or hunting anytime," said Michelle Pulley. Lisa Nash commented, "Mr. Augustin loves to explain anything and everything." Of course opinions differed, others said that Mr. Augustin, "Just ignores you and goes on with his teaching."

Other teachers weren't so easily swayed. "Ms. Earnest is so old, she knows all the tricks," said Matt Davis. Lynn Neese added, "If you say something off the subject in Ms. Krick's class, she looks at you like you are deformed."

Others stated that Coach Earnest was so into Geography that it was a waste of time to try to side track him and Ms. Garrettson refuses to discuss anything personal at school.

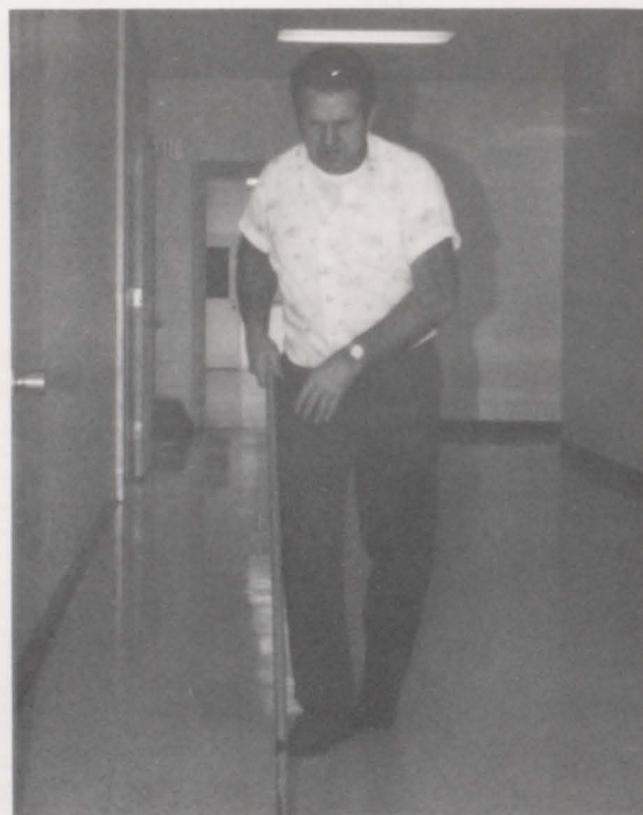

Most students agreed that even if they weren't successful at getting a teacher off the subject, it was worth a shot!

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher begin their day at L.H.S. as soon as the students leave at 2:30. They begin the awesome task of cleaning up after 500 people.

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Golden work the graveyard shift at L.H.S. They arrive each day at 4:30 and you will find them here until after 8:00 each night.

Billy Jo Jackson and Bill "Maw-Maw" Landtroop add spice to the otherwise monotonous days in the cafeteria.

Promptly at 9:16 each day you will find Mr. Jackson cleaning the halls after break.

Support Staff.

They Keep Going And Going and Going.

Cafeteria manager Sarah Fisher introduces pizza by the slice to the student body. Pizza made its way onto the scene as an alternative to hamburger and chicken sandwiches.

Sarah Fisher, Sharon Tichenor, Patricia Sandy, Ann Ayers, Donna Glass and Bill Landtroop get their meatwagon ready for the homecoming parade, in hopes of serving up a win.

Takin' Notes

The Loretto gym becomes a stage for musical talent as Nuthin' Fancy and AM/PM provide a much needed respite for Loretto students.

Loretto alumni Lonnie Cotton and Chris Brown performed many musical favorites with their band Nuthin' Fancy.

Stacy Key, Cindy Chandler, Jennifer Boston, and Adeline Hughes seem to be caught up in the rhythm while Tony White and Micah Rochester seem to be thankful to be breathing.

Christy Brown seems to have found something of great interest during the AM/PM concert as her classmates look on.

Julie Hunt becomes part of the act during the AM/PM concert.

The group AM/PM brought a mixture of various types of music as well as a lesson to Loretto students.

On The Move

The Student Council kicked off the 1993-94 school year with the second annual Teacher Appreciation Luncheon held on registration day. Student Council members feel it is important to show the faculty how much their jobs are appreciated. This gratitude is also displayed again during Teacher Appreciation week. Each Student Council member drew the names of two faculty members and left them surprise gifts for one week. The identity of the member is unknown until the end of the week.

The Student Council organized the annual Angel Tree collection for children in southern Lawrence Co. This community service project helps the less fortunate in our area have a Merry Christmas. Each homeroom is encouraged to sponsor at least one child. After all the money was collected, the members journeyed to the Lawrenceburg Wal-Mart to purchase gifts. Another service project was the Muscular Dystrophy Fund Drive. In the Fall we collected money through homerooms and in the Spring we sold Shamrocks with all the proceeds going to the M.D. foundation.

As was the tradition for the past two years, the student council sponsored a winter dance. Held on January 8, many students and faculty as well, got decked out in their semi-formal duds and enjoyed the music and dancing.

Due to inclement weather conditions, a.k.a. "The Ice Storm of '94", love was put on hold for a week. However, this did not stifle any hearts that were looking for their soul-mates.

Last year's school project was the landscaping on the front bank where Student Council members planted marigolds that spelled out LHS in a newly constructed flower bed. Continuation of this project is planned for years to come.

Stacy Odeneal prepares a table for guests of Cafe Amour. For five dollars, students and faculty were treated to a candlelight meal of hamburger steak, baked potato salad, and all the trimmings.

Junior Julie Hunt wraps a gift for the Angel Tree. Student Council members raced to meet the deadline in order to get their packages delivered on time.

Corey Tays eyes a brightly colored pair of pants before returning them to the rack in favor of a more practical item. The Student Council invaded Walmart and spent over $800.00 shopping for children whose names were on the Angel Tree.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed my four years on the Student Council. It has been a pleasure to help in improving our school. I have made some great friends and had some great times and I would not trade them for anything in the world. The many hours I spent on the Student Council has helped me to become a better leader and for that I am very grateful."

Physical Science students design and launch rocket projects.

Jason Chambers battles the sun as he tries to keep an eye on his rocket following a successful launch. Others wasn't so lucky as their rockets "crashed & burned" due to design flaws.

Nathan "Clovis" Smithson prepared his Beta series Viking rocket for launch.

Mr. Deese's and Mr. Augustin's Physical Science students constructed and launched model rockets as part of their study of Newton's Laws of Motion. The classes met on the football field for "Lunch and Launch".

Shannon Turner and Kattie Springer are obviously proud that their rocket managed to remain in one piece after its first launch.

Michael Moore, Todd Gamble, Kristi Hale, and Marti Snook wait their turn while remaining clear of the launch pad. At least one rocket misfired and sailed into the crowd causing momentary anxiety on the part of the spectators.

After the outside doors were installed, Billy Zimmerman and Chris Williams prepared to paint. White trim was used exclusively throughout the house.

Senior Greg Brown shoulders his shovel and calls it a day. Shoveling dirt tended to be used as a deterrent for misbehavior in place of the usual write-off.

Building Trades Erects House No. 19.

The Building Trades class contracted to build the home of Grant and Debra Earnest on Riddle Lane for their yearly project. Instruction began in the classroom before the actual construction phase was undertaken.

Mr. Danny Neldergeses accepted the job of building instructor after Mr. Beckman retired.

The Earnest home is truly a school project. The floor plans were drawn by Mr. Augustin and the blueprints were produced by Mr. Neidert's drafting classes. Special features of the house include, a loft overlooking the den, cathedral ceilings, and Palladian windows.

After weeks of waiting for the blocks and concrete to be finished, Michael Carter, Billy Reedy, and Mahlon Fisher frame up the walls as the house starts to take shape.

Fun And Play

As the year wore down to a close, the enthusiasm evident at the beginning of the year was fading fast. Luckily, class tournaments arrived on the scene to boost student involvement and break the monotony that often comes with the last minute, end of the year studying and test taking.

In the first round of the tournament the Sophomore girls defeated the Seniors, and the Junior boys were victorious over the Freshmen.

In the second round, the Freshmen girls were eliminated from play by the Juniors, while the Sophomore boys fell to the Seniors.

The Juniors dominated the finals. In the girls' game the Juniors outscored the Sophomores and the boys made it a clean sweep by defeating the Seniors.

Sophomores Amanda Shaw and Heather Gray are being closely guarded by Juniors Heather Beckman and Gina Lee. The tight defense paid off as the Juniors downed the Sophomores and advanced to the finals.

Senior Leon Glaze is congratulated by Coach Taylor for playing in more class tournaments than any other student. The Juniors slashed Leon's chances for going out on top as they defeated the Seniors.

Amy Ridgeway, Rayburn Wisdom, and Cynthia Brown share a group hug. Seniors seem to share a special kind of friendship. "We've been through so much together," said Amy. "I'll never forget all the fun we've had."

Some people, on the other hand, have no friends and have to settle for substitutes like Moo Cow and Oink Pig. It's rumored that Nathan Sawyer is too tough on his friends. We don't know that for sure, but just ask Bo — he knows!!

Friends through thick and thin! Jamie McLain and Lori McMasters share everything, even waitressing duties. "That's what friends are for," said Jamie.

Wesley Welch, Steven Ellis, Michelle Fleming, Eric Bedingfield, and Jared Jackson compare their Heart-to-Heart computer matches. Only true friends would share that information.

Friends Shannon Turner and Tiffani Dumas work together to track down a runaway quarter. Like they always say, "two heads are better than one."

The teamwork paid off as Shannon and Tiffanie reclaimed their snack money. "I found my quarter plus about forty more cents" said Shannon.

We're All In This Together

Kim Green and Misty Case prove that if you're a part of a team, as in cheerleading, being friends helps a lot. "We're together so much, if we didn't like each other, it would show when we had to cheer together," commented Kim.

Break time offers friends the chance to catch up on the latest news and gossip. Leslie Dover and Jennifer Clift share a laugh and a Pepsi between classes.

Some people have really good friends as is evidenced by the roses and balloons that never fail to swamp the office on Valentine's Day. Kandace James takes a peek to see who the lucky people are.

Countless hours of behind the scene preparations went into getting the stage ready for the first performance. Casey Rohling and Jonathan Carter were two of many that helped with the set design and construction.

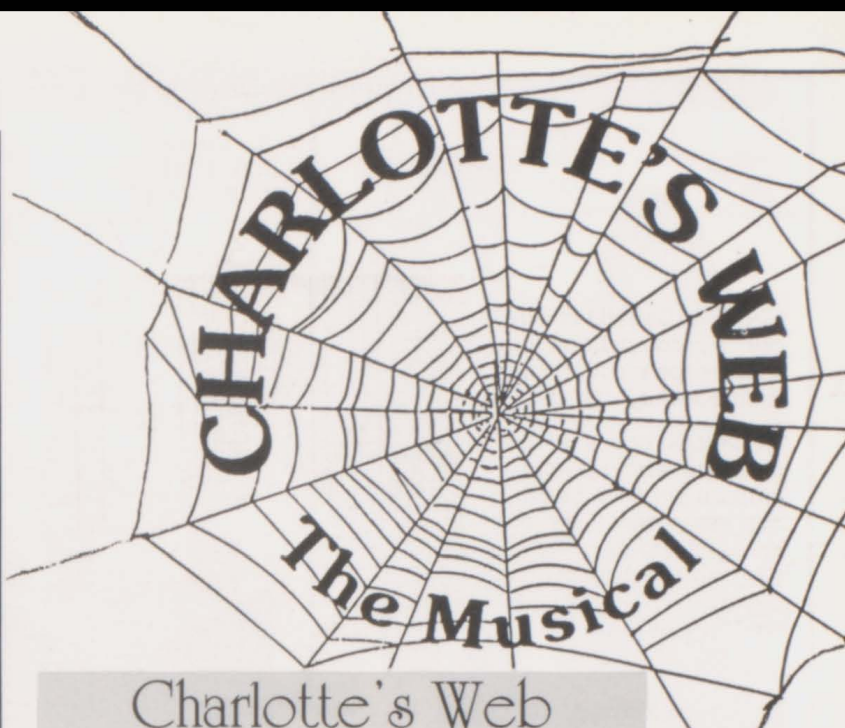

The Arables and the Zuckermans pose with their famous pig. Cast members included A. Cole, J. Hunt, N. Smithson, G. Brown, R. Burleson, N. Neese, M. Braly and C. Shannon.

Charlotte (C. Hill) attempts to convince Wilbur (N. Smithson) that it's not how large or how smart you are that's important, "You're you and you've always got the chance to win." stated Charlotte.

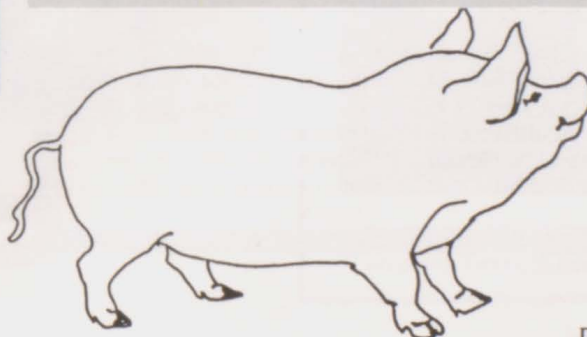

Homer Zuckerman (C Shannon) wistfully sings about the days of summer as he contemplates entering Wilbur in the county fair.

Charlotte's Web Captures Audiences

E.B. White's famous, Charlotte's Web, retained its magical charm when it was translated to the Loretto High School stage as a musical production. A cast of 40-plus rehearsed for two months to polish an exceptional performance enhanced by special costumes and make-up designed by Wanda Carvell. A farm backdrop complete with giant web was constructed by Jonathan Carter and Casey Rohling and decorated by Ms. Dickson and the art department. Meanwhile, lighting "technicians" David Frazier and Michael Beuerlein entertained the entertainers from the balcony with their special choreography to the musical numbers while backstage hands Katrina McClanahan, Hope Cheek, and Stephanie Mattox kept everyone on cue. Piano accompaniment was provided by Mark Jennings. The production was directed by Ms. Leighton with choral direction by Ms. Simbeck. Six performances captured sell-out audiences in the magical, make-believe world known as "theatre."

MARCHING MUSTANGS

HITTING ALL THE RIGHT NOTES

A Spirited And Dedicated Attitude Earns Band Well Deserved Success

At the half-time of every football game, the spectators heard the familiar whistle and drumbeat that signaled the beginning of the LHS Marching Mustang show. For five minutes playing an instrument looked as simple as riding a bike, but as any band member would tell you, nothing is as easy as it looks.

The flag corp and drum major started learning in June. They attended the Heart of Dixie Band Camp at UNA. At the end of camp, drum major Amanda Jones received an excellent rating while the flag corp received a superior in the competition. Night practices started in July with the annual band camp in August. Practice hours ranged from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The band performed in public for many different occasions: football games, parades (Homecoming, Veterans, St. Joseph, and Lawrenceburg Christmas Parades), and even a Christmas Concert. They traveled to two competitions, Greenhill and Hickman County, where they performed C.C. Rider, Love Me Tender, Jailhouse Rock, Don't Be Cruel, and Can't Help Falling in Love. Drum Major Amanda Jones was given the honor of performing in the Citrus Bowl.

In the spring Alicia Cole, Hope Cheek, Larissa Gray, and Kelley Bates were selected to go to Honor Band. A few band members attended Solo and Ensemble in Columbia. On April 10, 1994, the band performed: Londonderry Air, Largo, and New York, New York at the Swing into Spring concert in Lawrenceburg. Band officers were Chris Fisher (Pres.), Bobby Tapp (Vice Pres.), Myra Peppers (Treas.), and Nathan Smithson (Sec.).

Spirit Leads The Way

There they were, nearly every afternoon, in the gym, or on the practice field.

They planned, they practiced, and they just had fun. They were the LHS cheerleaders. Whether cheering at the pep rallies or games, this enthusiastic group made spirit their pastime.

"Hard work and dedication are needed if you want to have a good squad," said sponsor Barbie King. "We go to camp in the summer to help us prepare for the coming year." Misty Case said, "Practicing in the 105 degree temperature was the worst part about camp, but it brought us closer together as a squad."

The hard work was interspersed with good times and good friends. Slumber parties were a favorite activity and embarrassing moments tended to lighten the atmosphere and kept everyone laughing. "Stephanie and I dropped Emily on her tail in front of a whole gym filled with people. It was so embarrassing!" said Lori McMasters. Jennifer Boston added, "I'll never forget rolling coach Mark Toner's yard. It was so fun!" Cheering isn't for everyone, but for those who do participate, it's a great experience.

The 1994 Homecoming was considered a great success even though the traditional parade, as we know it, was almost excluded from the festivities. Due to a decline in student participation at construction sessions the parade was initially canceled. Subsequent meetings between concerned students and the administration resulted in a compromise. Class floats were ousted in favor of brightly decorated cars. Students, club members, and alumni paid five dollars for the privilege of entering a vehicle in the parade. "I really missed the floats," commented junior Neslie Daniels. "but the cars were better than no parade at all. I hope that next year everyone will want to get involved and we can have floats again." Plans remained on shaky ground throughout the week as Mr. Daniels was forced to cancel the bonfire due to heavy rainfall.

Dress-up days picked up waning spirits as the halls were overrun with hippies, cowboys, and gangsters. Outlandish hats made their way onto the scene in addition to scads of black and white on game day.

On game night, the Mustangs defeated the Fairview Yellow Jackets 28-7, to win the final game of the season and a berth in the playoffs. In light of the team's accomplishments, the disappointments of the parade and bonfire seemed to fade into the background.

Black Reign '93

Mustangs Return To Play Offs.

After posting a respectable 7-3 record in '92, Coach Butch Toner and his Loretto Mustangs had plenty of reasons for optimism as they prepared for the 1993 football season. Eight experienced seniors returned from '92 and joined ranks with eighty determined underclassmen, making the '93 squad one of the largest in LHS history. An additional bright spot for the Mustangs was the reclassification of teams. The outdated three division classification was replaced by a more competitive five division system. District 6AA teams included Spring Hill, Mt. Pleasant, Lewis Co., Richland, Fairview, and Loretto.

It took Loretto an extra day and a little over one quarter to get the football season underway. Bad weather prompted the Mustangs to postpone the season opener until Saturday night. The Mustangs needed only one quarter to get organized, before rolling to an impressive 40-0 win over the visiting Cannon County Lions.

The winning streak was short lived however as the Mustangs found themselves faced the following week with a determined Spring Hill squad. The Raiders, led by star quarterback Bernard Oden, soundly defeated the Mustangs 49-20.

Loretto quickly got back on track as they traveled to Greenhill and claimed their second shutout of the season. Mt. Pleasant's luck proved no better than the Pirates, as the Tigers allowed two fourth quarter touchdown passes by Justin Tidwell and a come-from-behind victory for the Mustangs.

A series of costly mistakes proved fatal in subsequent games.

A Giles Co. player finds the going tough as he runs head first into Kyle James. The Mustangs lost to the Bobcats in spite of tough plays like this one.

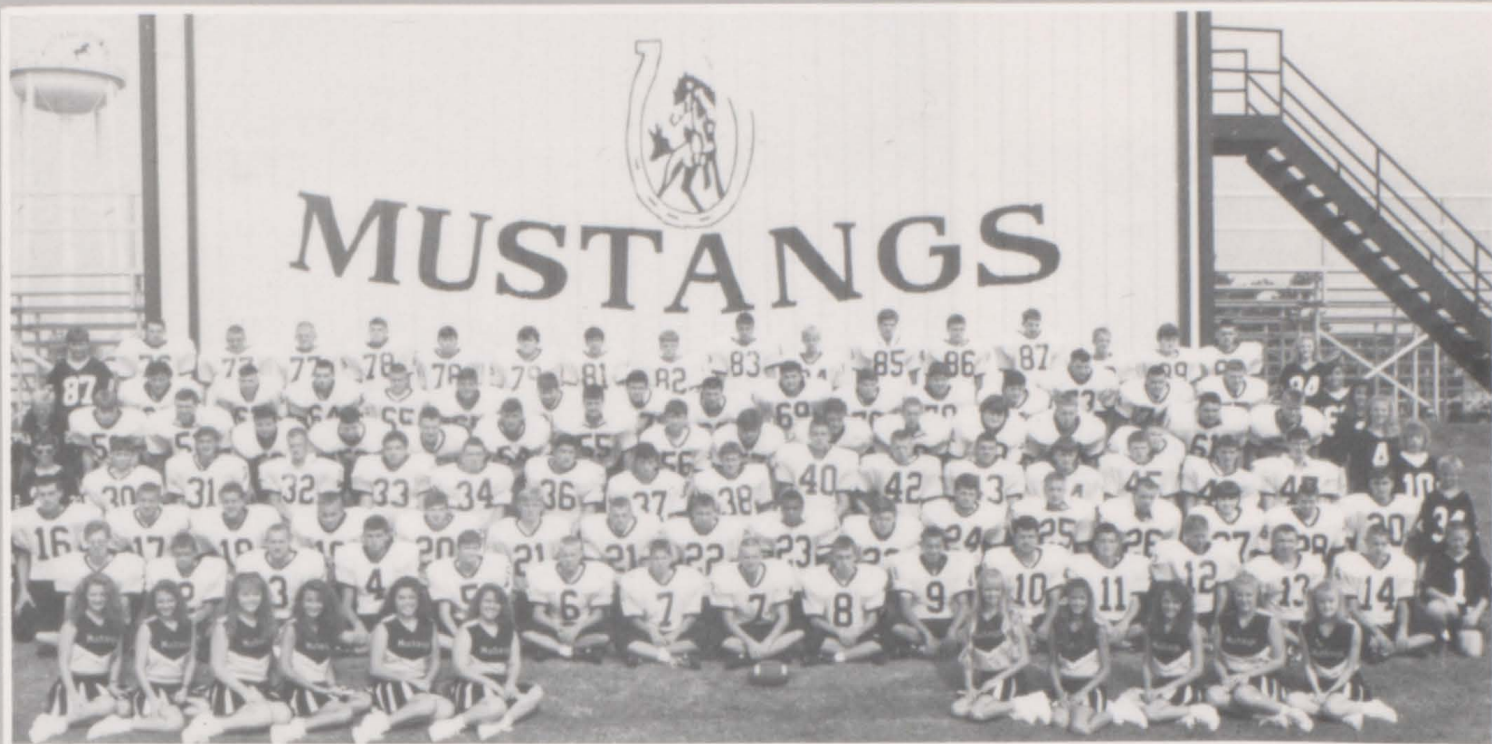

The Mustangs dropped three consecutive games against Collinwood, Lewis Co., and Lexington before rebounding with a 35-28 overtime win against Richland that kept their playoff hopes alive.

The Giles County Bobcat defense proved to be more than the Mustangs could handle as they built a 44 point lead before allowing two late touchdowns to narrow the margin 50-20. This loss placed the Mustangs in an unenviable must-win situation against Fairview in the season finale. The Mustangs met the challenge head-on and won their homecoming game and a place in tournament play by defeating Fairview 28-7. The Mustangs had less luck in the playoffs as they lost to Goodpasture 24-19 during the first round of regional tournament.

Playing their last game were seniors Jay Andrews, (All-Region) Jason Cox, Joey Hartsfield (All-Region, All-Midstate honorable mention) Kenny Shelton (All-Region, Receiver of the Year, Academic Award, All-State, All-Midstate) Brian Tucker, Kirk Weathers, and David Williams (Offensive Lineman of the Year, All-Midstate). Juniors Shane Heupel and Kyle James were also named to the All-Region team. The Mustangs ended their season with a 5-6 overall record.

How would you summarize the 1993 football season?

“I was proud of the senior effort we received this year, it played a big part in our success. It's great to be a part of a winning tradition. We've had a winning season for the last four years and have advanced to the playoffs in two of those years. It was only the second time in the history of the school that a team went to the football playoffs. Overall we had a wonderful season, and I'm looking forward to continued success next year.” Coach Butch Toner

"My favorite game was against Richland. The overtime win assured us a spot in the play-offs." — Jay Andrews

"My most embarrassing moment was during the Collinwood game, because I was down field on a pass, and got a touchdown called back." — Greg Brown

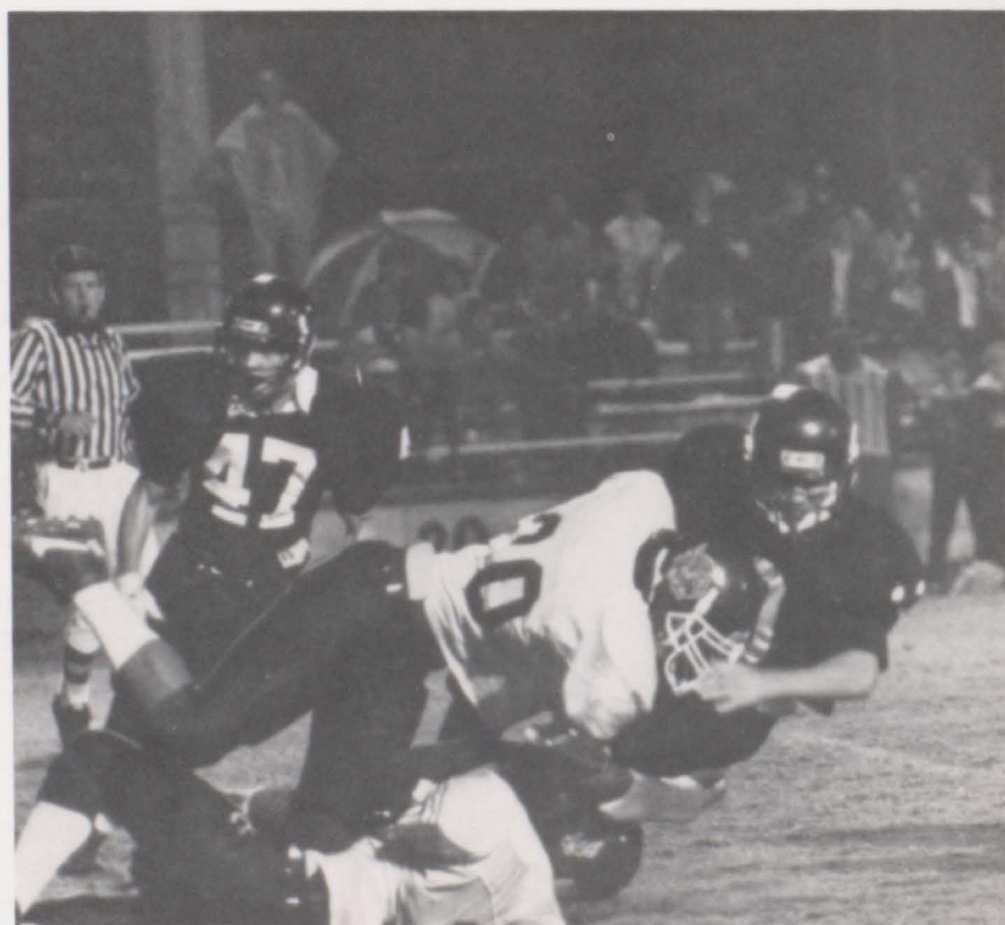

"My favorite game was where I sacked the Richland quarterback who didn't see it coming and we won in overtime." — Jason Cox

"I will most remember the coaches for the way they pushed us in practice to prepare us for the season." — Joey Hartsfield

Senior Brian Tucker is stopped by an aggressive Giles Co. defense, while Shane Heupel goes for a keyblock. The Mustangs fell to a talented Bobcat team by a score of 20-50.

M. Toner gets his point across to soph. quarterback, Justin Tidwell, as B. Toner looks on. The Mustangs lost a close decision to the Golden Bears of Lexington, 19-21.

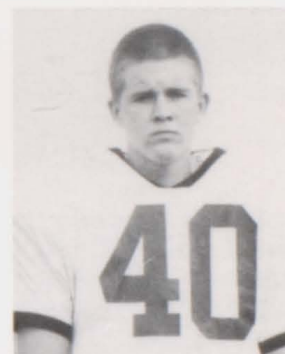

Kenny Shelton maneuvers to avoid a tackle by a Fairview defense, winning (28-7).

"My favorite game was against Mt. Pleasant because, I caught two touchdown passes in the last five minutes of the game as we defeated Mt. Pleasant (13-6)."
— Kenny Shelton

"My superstitions would be that I would wear two pairs of socks a certain way every game, and I'd throw up." — Brian Tucker

"My most exciting play was catching a throwback pass for a first down in opening drive against Fairview."

Team Exceeds Preseason Predictions

After losing six players to graduation, many thought that a fifth consecutive trip to the state tournament was a long shot. The Lady Mustangs however, had no such doubts. Seniors Amy Ridgeway, Cynthia Brown, Heather Turner, Amber Burbank and Shannon Fowler stepped up to meet the challenge head on, leading the '93 squad to a second place finish in both the district and region. LHS was on its way to state once again.

Loretto opened the season on a winning note, defeating Hickman Co. in two straight sets before falling to inter-county rival Lawrence Co. by a score of 15-13, 0-15, 9-15. The remainder of the season was a series of ups and downs, as the Lady Mustangs dropped four out of five games to non-district foes before regrouping to win ten out of twelve all important district games. Victories in the final three matches of the season primed the team for tournament play.

A first place, district season record of 10-1, gave Loretto a bye in district tournament play, automatically placing them in the semi-finals. The Lady Mustangs defeated Hickman Co. 15-12, 15-11, while Summertown downed a determined Hampshire squad. Loretto fell short of the district championship, losing to Summertown 16-14, 4-15, 14-16 in the finals.

After defeating Eagleview 15-11, 12-15, 15-13 in the first round of regional tournament action, Loretto was pitted against Summertown once again. The Lady Mustangs failed to overcome the strong hitting of the Eaglettes and lost the match 15-7, 15-9.

A second place regional finish assured the team of a berth in the state tournament. The Lady Mustangs traveled to Whitwell where they were defeated 11-15, 2-15, bringing their season to an end. "I was really pleased with the effort the girls gave this year", said Coach Debra Earnest. "We were consistent with our serving and offense. Blocking tended to be our main weakness and we seemed to be out of sync in the second game of many matches, but we usually picked the pace back up in the third. Overall, we played smart ball, worked well together, and had a great time. You can't ask for more than that."

Amy Ridgeway, Cynthia Brown, And Shannon Fowler were all honored for their accomplishments during the 93-94 volleyball season. Amy & Shannon received All-District and All-Regional recognition, while Cynthia was named to the All-District team.

"I think this year's team really played together as a team. No one person tried to get all the attention." S. Fowler

"The best part of this year was when we all worked hard and played together to beat Summertown. That made this a year, a year to remember." A. Burbank

"I think this year was one of the best because we all worked together as a team and this also helped us succeed in tournaments." H. Turner

"We had a great year, because we all worked hard together and also had alot of fun. I will miss everyone a lot next year." C. Brown

"This year was the very best because we all played together as a team and that's what it takes to win. I had a great time and loved being a part of the team. I love you all and I'll miss you bunches." A. Ridgeway

Shannon Fowler goes up in an attempt to score against Hickman Co. during district tournament play at Summertown. The Lady Mustangs defeated the Lady Bulldogs 2 straight games.

The Lady Mustangs defeated Eagleville to advance to the finals of the regional tournament. Amber Burbank & her teammates made the big plays when necessary to keep their winning streak alive.

Spirits On Ice

The week of basketball homecoming got off to a slow start due to inclement weather conditions. School was closed on Monday as the ice storm continued to plague the county. Classes resumed on Tuesday, but many areas remained without power forcing a large number of students to remain at home. Homecoming activities were limited to the FTA's Spirit Chain competition and two dress-up days, Hat Day and Black and White Day. The Seniors purchased the greatest number of links for their spirit chain giving class President Michael Beurlein the pleasure of swatting Mr. Daniel with a cream pie. Class presidents Amanda White, Kiley Weathers, and Heather Beckman weren't so lucky and suffered the same fate as Mr. Daniel.

Cynthia Brown was crowned Queen by Kirk Weathers at pregame activities. The festivities ended with the game against Richland as the girls posted a win, and the boys suffered a loss at the hand of the Raiders.

Sophomore Ginger Kimbrell posts up against Tigerette Mikita Gilbert. Ginger scored 11 points in a failing attempt to upset district rival Marshall Co.

Freshman Kristy Evers broke into the line-up as a Lady Mustang early in the 93 season. Kristy added much needed quickness to Loretto's defense.

Junior Cindy Chandler is fouled in by Jenny Morris of Giles County as she attempts a 3 point shot. The Lady Mustangs dropped both games to the Lady Cats during the regular season.

Lady Mustangs Get Things Done By Pulling Together

coach Jerry Taylor and coach Michael Barnett entered the 93 season with a team comprised of 1 senior, and 12 underclassmen who were determined to leave their mark as Lady Mustangs. "Our ultimate goal is to go to state," said senior Shannon Fowler.

Despite a young line-up with limited varsity experience, coach Jerry Taylor and the Lady Mustangs kicked off the 93-94 season with high expectations. Lone senior, Shannon Fowler set the pace for the remainder of the team by working hard and encouraging a competitive spirit in her teammates.

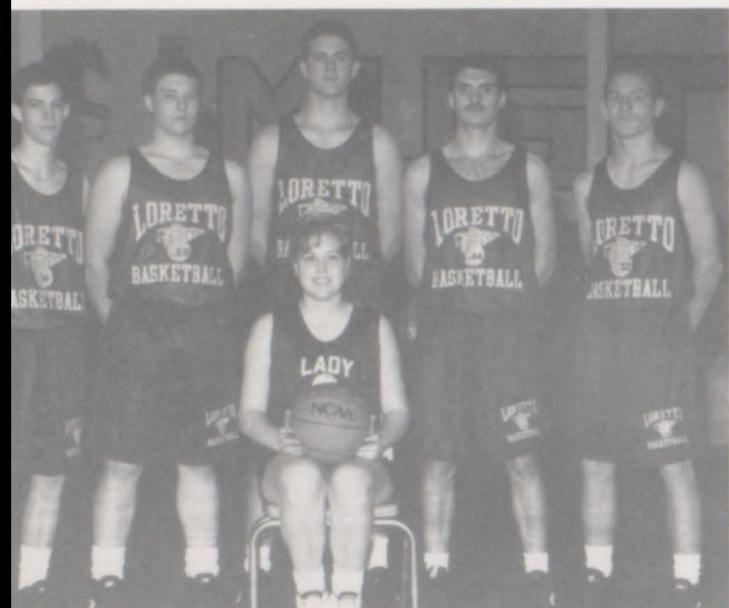

After opening the season with a disappointing loss to Wayne Co. the Lady Mustangs regrouped to defeat Clifton 59-63. Inexperience seemed to be the biggest disadvantage for the Lady Mustangs as they lost three games by a one point margin, (one in overtime).

The weather also hampered the Lady Mustangs efforts to gain momentum. Cancellations due to ice & snow made it necessary for the team to play several of their games back to back. "We played 11 games in 19 days" said coach Jerry Taylor. "It's hard to be on top of your game with a schedule like that." A final record of 14-13 and a fourth place finish in the district tournament capped the season.

Highlights for the season included winning the T.M. Rogers Christmas Tournament, Ginger Kimbrell's free throw with no time left on the clock to defeat Hickman Co., Cindy Chandler's three point basket to defeat Chapel Hill, and the scoring and rebounding of Kristy Freeman and Ginger Kimbrell to defeat Richland on Homecoming night.

John Shults watches the action, as Kirk Weathers goes in for two points, despite the defensive attempt of a Giles Co. player. Kirk compiled 893 points during his career at LHS and plans to play at Martin Methodist following graduation.

Puttin It On The Line

Teamwork Paves Way To Success

"The 1993-94 season was personally the most satisfying of my seven years as a head coach," commented Coach Keith Schrimsher. "I could tell coming out of summer camp that I was working with a special group of young men."

The Mustang Basketball team under the direction of new head coach Keith Schrimsher set out to make the 93 year one to be proud of. After winning the first two games against Wayne Co. and Clifton the Mustangs also won on the road against Hickman Co. The Mustangs then defeated Richland in the T.M. Rogers Christmas Tourney, to sport a 6-2 record at the break.

The real turning point for the team seemed to be at Lawrence Co. Coming into the game at 7-4 the Mustangs were down by 13 points at the half before regrouping to win by eleven. That win spurred the team to go on and win 10 out of their next 15 games and to finish the season with 18 wins and 9 losses.

"I was extremely proud for our seniors." Winning breeds confidence so my expectations for the 94-95 season are very high. I'm looking forward to bigger and better things for our program." said Coach Schrimsher.

"We had a moderately successful season," said Coach Kaye Busby. "Our success in the District Tournament was a nice surprise." Doubles partners Christina

Hill and Heather Beckman made their way to the finals and finished in the runner-up position. For the first time in four years the girls team won a berth in the regional tournament.

Senior Jessica Hollmann, the number 2 ranked girls player on the team was named Player of the Year. "Jessica never gave up", commented Ms. Busby.

First year player Chad Franklin played in the Number 3 spot for the Mustangs. Here Chad takes the set and match in action against Summertown.

No. 2 player, Senior Micheal Beuerlein lines up a forehand shot in action against Mt. Pleasant.

Spectators and players-in-waiting alike kick back and enjoy the game in progress. S. Smithson, S. Fowler, J. Sledge, J. Hollmann, C. Hill, and H. Turner pull for the home team.

Sophomore Johnny Beckman gets Davis to hit into a double play to end the first inning against Giles County. Johnny struck out five and walked only three to claim a 6-5 victory over the Bobcats.

Sophomore second baseman Jonathan Shultz went 2 for 4 and scored two runs in the non-district game against West Limestone. The Mustangs lost the game 6-11 due largely to a 3 run blast by J. Morgan in the seventh inning.

Coach Jacobs and catcher Eric Lindsey take a time out to go over pitch selections in action against Wayne County. The Mustangs defeated the Wildcats 11-1 in 5 innings.

Heather Gray, Jessica Eskridge, and Candace Woodham wait patiently for their turn at bat during a lull in the action.

Ginger Kimbrell swings low in the game against Mt. Pleasant which we later won 12-0.

The Lady Mustangs had a very successful year. They ended their season with a very respectable record of 10 wins and 6 losses. They racked up 211 runs over the season averaging over 10 per game.

Their performance in the regular season earned them a berth in the District Tournament. They lost their first game to Giles Co. 7-2 they then won 2 in a row beating Hickman Co. 13-3 and Giles Co. 8-7. In the final game they were defeated by Marshall Co. 5-1. Loretto ended up as District 9-AA Runner-up to Marshall Co. With Marshall Co. going on to become Runner-up in the State Finals.

The Lady Mustangs who went above and beyond were; Ginger Kimbrell (Batting Champion, 9-AA Team), Shannon Fowler (MVP, Miss Mustang, and 9-AA Team), and Kristy Evers (9-AA Team).

LHS Takes A Swing At Golf

Golf Team Makes Respectable Showing During Premier Year.

With the arrival of Coach Keith Schrimsher as boy's head basketball coach the unexpected addition of golf as an organized sport at LHS became a reality. The sport was primarily due to facilities at Anderson Creek being made available for usage by the golf team.

"It was an enjoyable experience to be able to start Loretto High School's golf program. We had seven boys who participated and they were a real pleasure to work with. We are looking forward to continuing a golf program here at Loretto High School," commented Coach Keith Schrimsher.

Mr. Deese and Mr. Simbeck try out the New Video Microscope. The state of the art equipment was purchased through a grant from the Lawrence County Education Foundation and by student fund raisers. This equipment will be utilized by all science students at Loretto.

Each year Mr. Neidert's classes have a contest to see whose bridge will withstand the most pressure. These bridges are constructed of tiny wood splints and glue.

Leon Glaze, Bill Cundiff, B.J. Schisler, and Scotty Tidwell examine the bridges designed by the drafting classes. After they are built, they are put on display in the library.

Mr. Simbeck again led another group of eager Advanced Biology students to distant destinations in search of rare and unusual wildlife.

Field trips are the highlights of the scientific careers of students at Loretto High School. After years of hard work and determination, students are given an opportunity to travel with their classmates to points of interest within our region. These trips are led by Mr. Simbeck and Mr. Neidert who seem to enjoy themselves almost as much as the students.

As in the past, the trips included bird-watching at Joe Wheeler Wildlife Refuge in Decatur Alabama, geology studies and eagle watching at Reelfoot Lake in western Tennessee, and blasting off into the stars at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama.

All in all these excursions into the wild unknown culminate what is for many a very memorable scholastic experience.

LHS Students Take Steps To Move . . .

Beyond The Ordinary

If the everyday ups and downs of school life aren't enough to keep you busy, do what others at LHS are doing — go to France, entertain at a major bowl game, or get a story published. Sound easy? It's not, but this and more actually happened for members of our campus family during the 1993-94 school year.

Jones Makes Citrus Bowl Appearance

For Sophomore Amanda Jones, the UNA Drum Major Camp was more than just a lot of hard work, it was her ticket to the Citrus Bowl. As a result of her camp performance, she received an invitation to perform with other band members from across the United States at the Citrus Bowl game between UT and Penn St. "My mom was so excited," stated Amanda. "The only way I could go was if she went too. You would have thought that she was the one that was going to be on the field."

Amanda and her mom trekked to Orlando on Dec 27 for registration. Preparation for the show began with practice at 8:00 A.M. and lasted until 4:00 P.M. More practice was interspersed between awards banquets, trips to Disney World and Sea World, a Sawyer Brown Concert, and lots of fireworks.

"but I had alot of fun. The trip was worth all the hard work it took to get there."

Game day rolled around and so did a bad case of the nerves, but Amanda made the Marching Mustangs proud as she represented them at a major bowl. "It rained on game day and Tennessee lost," commented Amanda,

Davis Tours London With UCA All-Stars

While attending cheerleading camp at the University of North Alabama Emily Davis decided to try out for All-Star designation. She competed with many other cheerleaders from area high schools. The competition involved cheering, jumps, and dance. The competition was held on the night before the camp was over. Although the competition was stiff Emily was selected as an All-Star cheerleader for 1993. This in itself was a great honor, but she also was able to go to London and tour this historic city with the UCA squad.

Fowl Play

William and Jackie dreaded Thanksgiving. Not because they weren't thankful for their happy life; not because they didn't like to eat a big Thanksgiving meal. They just hated the idea of eating a turkey — that big beautiful bird with shiny feathers and a bright red wobbly thing hanging from its throat. So imagine their surprise when ...

They went to answer the door and found that on the other side stood a smiling turkey.

"Bob's the name. None of you fine folks would be interested in a magnificent turkey such as myself for your holiday fest, I suppose?" he asked.

"No, of course not!" the shocked couple replied.

"You wouldn't? Did I mention that a refined turkey (ahem!) with qualifications like mine will give you the most beautiful bird with shimmering tail feathers that you have ever seen. I could — no, better yet — I would make your neighbors green with envy."

Pleased with his presentation, Bob once again questioned, "Would you be interested? No money involved; all you have to do is fatten me up."

"What is the matter with you?" Jackie exclaimed, no longer able to control herself.

"I'll have you know that I placed first in the esteemed Bird Beauty Festival!" Bob continued to boast. "Every year a handful of turkeys are chosen to participate in the Thanksgiving feast. Why, they get so famous that the rest of us turkeys never see or hear from them again."

"Just today I observed my distinguished Uncle Mack on a billboard with the caption, 'But-terball — The Best That You Can Get' hovering above his head. Ever since I was a wee gobbler I've dreamt of partaking in this coveted tradition, and you are impeding my road to fame and fortune."

"Why would you want your head chopped off, your feathers plucked, and to be cooked and eaten?" a puzzled William inquired.

At the sound of "chopped," Bob looked peculiar; and by "plucked," Bob was turning green; and by "cooked and eaten," poor Bob had fainted.

"Oh, dear!" cried Jackie, sprinting into the house. She brought out a bucket of ice water and poured it over Bob's head.

Bob was still stunned, but he gobbled accusingly, "Are you trying to drown me! Please, this offer has been canceled. I'm too young to die!"

"What exactly did you think you were doing?" Jackie asked.

"All they told us was that you would fatten us up and make us beautiful in your eyes. I suppose the saying, 'Beauty is only skin deep' is right," Bob rattled, still shaking. "When a human looks at a turkey, are there only two options, smoked or baked?" he asked.

"Well, you are certainly lucky you knocked on our door first, and you are welcomed to stay," William said.

Ever since the day, Bob has been a pet to William and Jackie, but he always disappears on Thanksgiving to warn all the winners of the Bird Beauty Festival of their unknown fate. Sometimes, Bob realized, being one of the chosen isn't a privilege.

LHS Students Lend A Helping Hand

Whether it's collecting money for a favorite charity, gathering food for the needy in the community, or just doing what it takes to keep a club going, student volunteers are always ready and willing to go the extra mile.

Emily Davis displays a sample of the groceries donated by the student body for the annual FCA canned food drive. The food is distributed to local families prior to the Thanksgiving Holidays.

Below: FTA member Adeline Hughes prepares a feather necklace for her favorite teacher during the teacher turkey competition.

Beta Club Vice President Heather Beckman accepts a donation from Lisa Vanderford for their annual St. Jude's fund raiser.

Student Council member Andie Tays puts the finishing touches on a gift for the annual Angel Tree drive which helps to insure that local needy children have a special Christmas.

Jennifer Phillips sharpens her art skills while helping an elementary student complete a craft project. Members of Mrs. Frank's Family Living class travel to South Lawrence to gain experience working with small children.

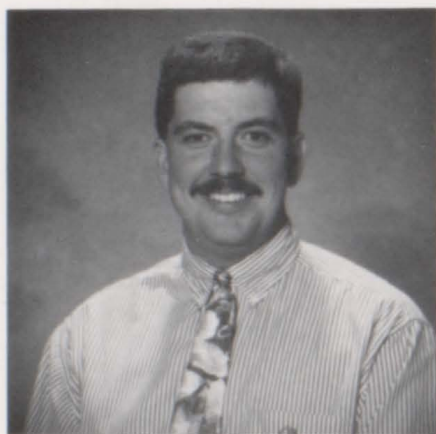

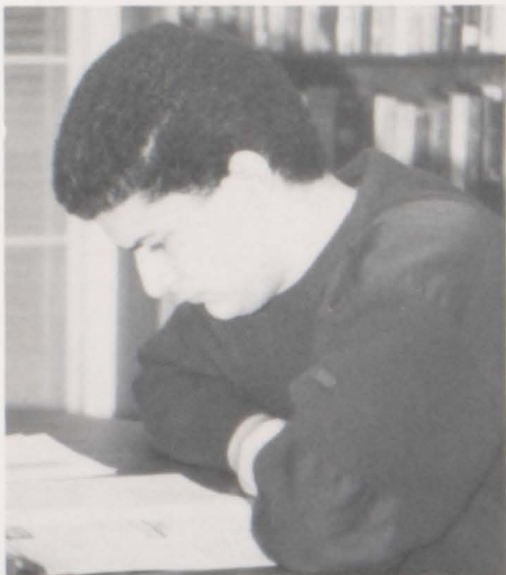

FTA member Shannon Fowler prepares a basket of goodies for a LHS faculty member during the holidays.

YAB member Karri Newton hands out drug-free ribbons to elementary students during their annual drug-free drive.

Coach Mark Toner was selected as the Teacher of the Year by his peers at LHS and later won the county wide title as well. Coach Toner teaches Computer Literacy and coaches football and basketball.

Spanish exchange student Ricardo Filloy was a welcomed addition to the student body. During the 93-94 school year.

Spotlight

The students of LHS selected Mr. Damon Deese as Teacher of the Year in competition sponsored by the FTA. Mr. Deese's duties include teaching Physical Science, Biology, Yearbook, and co-sponsoring Beta Club.

Seniors Are

Chris Shannon accepts his diploma and congratulations from Mr. Daniel. Graduation was moved into the gym due to the threat of rain.

Class President and Valedictorian Michael Beuerlein addresses the class of 1994 for the final time. Eighty-seven seniors donned their caps and gowns for the ceremony.

Chris Jones welcomes the graduates their families and friends to the Sixty-Sixth Annual Commencement of LHS honoring The Class of 1994.

CONGRATULATIONS GRADS

Members of the class of 1994 experienced many emotions in the days leading up to graduation night. They looked forward to not having to take another grueling math test under Mrs. Barnett, nor would they have to suffer the experience of another physics test. They would not have to put up with any of the rules which were forced on them at L.H.S. They could now wear shorts, hold hands in public, and smoke in any public bathroom of their choice. More importantly, they would soon be faced with many of the most important decisions which would affect their lives forever, such as; which college should I attend, Where can I find a job, where should I live, should I get married, etc. etc. As the magic day loomed closer, feelings of both happiness and sadness were experienced, one segment of their lives was ending and yet another one beginning.

Senior Chorus members K. McClanahan, S. Mattox, K. Stamps, A. Cole, M. Beuerlein, M. Richter, E. Davis, M. Braly, J. Cox, M. Fleming, A. Burbank, G. Brown, L. Armour, and C. Shannon sang On Eagles Wings as a tribute to the graduating class of 1994.

Sherrie Mattox proudly displays her diploma. After 4 years of seemingly grueling tests and homework assignments, most seniors were proud to have their high school careers over and done with.

After receiving empty diploma covers during the actual ceremony, K. Weathers, B. Tapp, C. Moore, C. Jones, B. Tucker and a host of others surround Mr. Brown as he hands out the real thing.

"Power of Love" Junior-Senior Prom

Most prom goers kicked off the evening by getting photographed and then dining at their favorite restaurant. They then made their way to the city park for a night of dancing and socializing. For the first time in five years the prom was held at the civic center instead of in the gymnasium. The decision was made to move to a new location primarily due to the lack of air conditioning and the difficulties that go along with decorating a large area.

Opinions differed as to whether or not the change was a good one. "We did not have to hang miles of black plastic and the decorating time was cut substantially," Commented Ms. Earnest, "That in itself made me agree with the decision to relocate." "The Power Of Love" was selected as the theme for the evening with WZYP setting the mood with a variety of musical styles. Floor length evening gowns were the norm, though a few mini-dresses and even a Tux-shorts made their way onto the fashion scene.

Regardless of whether or not one agreed with the setting most students agreed that the prom was a huge success.

Couples take a rest after showing their moves on the dance floor.

Katrina McClanahan and Priscilla Moore compliment each others gowns for the evening.

Lynn Neese puts the final touches on a column base in preparation for the prom.

Roger Killen, Nathan Neese, Greg Brown, Nathan Sawyer, and Jason Cox heat up the dance floor as evidenced of the smoke.

After the prom was moved to the Civic Center, Jonathan Huntley came prepared in his short tux and topped it all off with his Converse All-Star Sneakers.

Stephanie Mattox, Emily Davis, and Heather Beckman pose for a close-up shot.

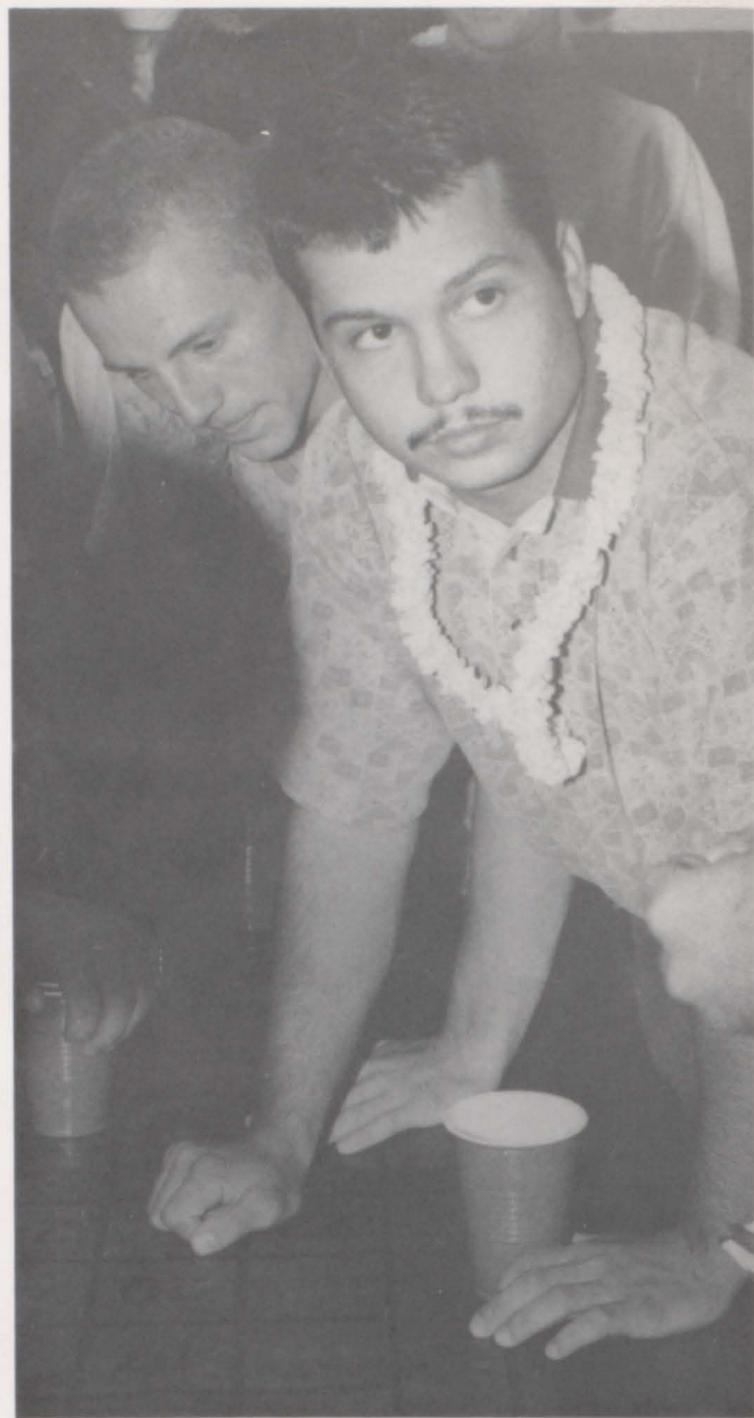

Jay Andrews leads the party train as his classmates join in.

Mr. Daniels and Mr. Peppers patrol the dance floor as couples get closer and closer.

Jason Cox and Cynthia Brown react to their luck or lack of it at the Bouncing Betty. Mr. Daniel donned his best vest for the occasion.

Kenny Shelton and Brian Tucker have high hopes of winning "big bucks" as they anxiously await the spin of the roulette wheel.

Leis and other Luau attire set the mood for the 1993 drug free party. Stephanie Mattox and Chris Jones watch as Stephanie Smithson tries her luck at black jack.

Hope Cheek safely tucks her winnings away in a cup and takes a break from the gaming tables. Cash and prizes were used as incentives to entice graduates to attend the after graduation social.

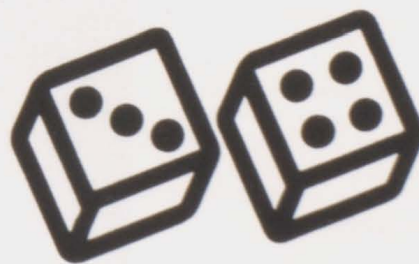

After the festivities D. Frazier, R. Filloy, J. Cox, E. McMasters, and K. Shelton help clean up the civic center by throwing out the "trashy" Micah Rochester.

Drug Free Party

Heather Turner and Amber Jaco celebrate graduation by munching down on the "tons" of food donated by various businesses and individuals.

Seniors

Leave Their Mark.

One's Senior year is a mixture of headaches and fun. The class of 1993 made their final year at LHS one to remember.

Tim Colvert takes aim at the Annual Archery Contest as part of his field work for FFA. Many seniors preferred this type of hands-on activity to the regular classroom routine.

Jason Cox sizes up his graduation gown prior to the big event. When the mortar boards and gowns arrive, it's a sign that the end of school is right around the corner.

Shelee Aldridge tends to late arrival, freshman Jonathan Estes. Required by law to remain at school 5½ hours several seniors filled in their time by working in the office.

Mandy Braly bundles up in an effort to stay warm while at Reelfoot Lake. Field trips were a welcome from the daily grind even though the weather often failed to cooperate.

YEARBOOK

It's About Time!!

Where's that picture? Who has the cropper? Why isn't that copy done? That looks stupid? Mr. Deese why is your face so red? Are you unhappy? Why don't you just do it yourself? Who me? Why Me?

Our year was filled with a lot of miscues but we've finally got it all together. We hope that you enjoy our attempt to bring you a chronolog of the 93-94 school year.

We wish to thank; Mr. and Mrs. Beckman, Mr. Brown, Mr. Daniel, Mrs. Augustin, Mrs. Shelton, Mr. Augustin, Mrs. H.H., Mrs. Belew, Coach Toner, Coach Taylor, Coach Schrimsher, Coach Busby, Coach Davis, Coach Jones, Coach Shirley, Coach Jacobs. All of our advertisers and especially Mrs. E. without whom we could not have finished.

As the Senior class of 94 waves good-bye, they remember all the joyous occasions and memories that they will carry with them forever. All smiles and happy faces now, some will be overcome with tears as they realize that these days can never be relived. As they walk into the future some will stay together while others will drift apart. From now on whenever they remember and travel back down life's highway, they will always remember this stop on the road, and those who made it great.
